

Dear all,

It's been a busy summer here at Youth United but, as the articles which appear in this month's newsletter show, it seems that the young people Youth United sets out to support have been equally busy enjoying adventures and exploits and putting themselves out for others.

Read about how one of JLGB's music bands commemorates veterans and the effort that goes into preparing for parades which bind generations together (whatever the weather!). Or how a Fire Cadet unit from Liverpool, revitalised with Youth United funding, won an award for sportsmanship by showing dignity and respect for their fellow competitors at a national competition. Our final article for the month features the community activities of a CLCGB group in Northern Ireland - running together to raise funds for a local charity. It's so pleasing to see these Youth United funded groups individually thriving and their participants taking on challenges and supporting others but put together they demonstrate the amazing array of opportunities that uniformed youth groups give to young people. We can't wait to see what they take on next!
